```
#include <iostream>
#include <stdexcept>
#include <string>
using namespace std;

// Custom exception for negative deposit amounts class NegativeDepositException : public runtime_error {
public:
    NegativeDepositException() : runtime_error("Deposit amount is not negative.") {}
};
// Custom exception for insufficient funds on withdrawal class InsufficientFundsException : public runtime_error {
public:
    InsufficientFundsException() : runtime_error("Insufficient funds for withdrawal.") {}
};

// BankAccount class to manage individual account details and operations class BankAccount { private:
    int accountNumber;
    string accountHolderName;
    double balance;

public:
    // Constructor to initialize account details BankAccount(int accNumber, const string& accHolderName, double initialBalance)
        : accountNumber(accNumber), accountHolderName(accHolderName), balance(initialBalance) { if (initialBalance < 0) throw runtime_error("Initial balance cannot be negative.");
    }
```

```
    // Deposit function to add money to the account void deposit(double amount) { if (amount < 0) throw NegativeDepositException();
        balance += amount;
        cout << "Deposit successful.\n";
    }

    // Withdraw function to subtract money from the account void withdraw(double amount) { if (amount > balance) throw InsufficientFundsException();
        balance -= amount;
        cout << "Withdrawal successful.\n";
    }

    // Display the current balance and account information void displayBalance() const { cout << "Account Number: " << accountNumber << "\n" << "Holder Name: " << accountHolderName << "\n" << "Current Balance: KES" << balance << "\n";
    }

    // Get the account number int getAccountNumber() const { return accountNumber;
    }
};

// Find an account by its number
```

```
BankAccount* findAccount(BankAccount* accounts[], int accountCount, int accNum) { for (int i = 0; i < accountCount; ++i) { if (accounts[i]->getAccountNumber() == accNum) return accounts[i];
    }
    return nullptr; // Return nullptr if account not found
}

// Function to display all accounts void displayAllAccounts(BankAccount* accounts[], int accountCount) { if (accountCount == 0) { cout << "No accounts to display.\n";
        return;
    }

    cout << "\nAll Bank Accounts:\n";
    for (int i = 0; i < accountCount; ++i) {
        cout << "----------------------\n";
        accounts[i]->displayBalance();
        cout << "----------------------\n";
    }
}

int main() {
    const int maxAccounts = 5; BankAccount* accounts[maxAccounts];
    int accountCount = 0;

    int choice;
```

```
while (true) { // Display menu options cout<< "\nBank Management System\n"; cout << "1. Add New Account\n"; cout << "2. Deposit\n"; cout << "3. Withdraw\n"; cout << "4. Display Balance\n"; cout << "5. Display All Accounts\n"; cout << "6. Exit\n";
    cout << "Choose an option: ";
    cin >> choice;

    if (choice == 6) break; // Exit the program

    int accNum;
    double amount;
    BankAccount* account = nullptr;

    switch (choice) {
        case 1:
            if (accountCount < maxAccounts) {
                string accName;
                double initialBalance;

                // Gather account creation details cout << "Enter account number: ";
                cin >> accNum;
                cout << "Enter account holder name: ";
                cin.ignore();
```

```
            getline(cin, accName);
            cout << "Enter initial balance: ";
            cin >> initialBalance;

            try { // Create and add a new account accounts[accountCount++] = new BankAccount(accNum, accName, initialBalance); cout << "Account created successfully.\n"; } catch (const runtime_error& e) { cout << "Error: " << e.what() << "\n";
            }
        } else {
            cout << "Account limit reached.\n";
        }
        break;

    case 2:
        // Deposit operation
        cout << "Enter account number for deposit: ";
        cin >> accNum;
        account = findAccount(accounts, accountCount, accNum);

        if (account) {
            cout << "Enter deposit amount: ";
            cin >> amount;
            try {
                account->deposit(amount); } catch (const NegativeDepositException& e) { cout << "Error: " << e.what() << "\n";
```

```
        }
    } else {
        cout << "Account not found.\n";
    }
    break;

case 3:
    // Withdraw operation
    cout << "Enter account number for withdrawal: ";
    cin >> accNum;
    account = findAccount(accounts, accountCount, accNum);

    if (account) {
        cout << "Enter withdrawal amount: ";
        cin >> amount;
        try {
            account->withdraw(amount); } catch (const InsufficientFundsException& e) { cout << "Error: " << e.what() << "\n";
        }
    } else {
        cout << "Account not found.\n";
    }
    break;

case 4:
    // Display balance operation cout << "Enter account number to display balance: ";
    cin >> accNum;
```

```
            account = findAccount(accounts, accountCount, accNum);

            if (account) {
                account->displayBalance(); } else {
                cout << "Account not found.\n";
            }
            break;

        case 5:
            // Display all accounts displayAllAccounts(accounts, accountCount);
            break;
        default:
            cout << "Invalid choice. Please try again.\n";
    }
}
// Clean up dynamically allocated memory for (int i = 0; i < accountCount; ++i) {
    delete accounts[i];
}
cout << "Thank you for using the Bank.\n";
return 0;
```